VT Industries Announces New Vice President of Operations for Architectural Wood Door Division

(HOLSTEIN, Iowa, February 8, 2008) – VT Industries, a leading manufacturer of architectural wood doors, welcomes Jason Farver as its Vice President of Operations for the Architectural Wood Door Division including the newly acquired IDEAL Door Division. Jason brings nearly nine years of experience in marketing, product development and operations management to his new position. “Jason’s experience and professionalism are key assets as he oversees the operations of VT’s architectural wood doors at the Holstein, Iowa and New Albany, Indiana manufacturing facilities,” comments Doug Clausen, President and CEO of VT Industries Inc.

Jason previously served as site plant manager of a new door and window production facility in Kentucky. This experience allows Jason to bring a wealth in knowledge of operations management and product development to VT Industries. His focus will be improving the quality, safety culture, and efficiency gains through process management as well as lean manufacturing. Jason’s goal will be improving capacity and throughput in cooperation with the operations team. Farver expresses, “I am excited to be joining a winning organization in VT Industries.”
